27 October 2018 - 8:00 A.M. – 3:00 P.M.

“GOING NATIVE”

Blue Ridge Community College, Plecker Center

Weyers Cave, Virginia

The Central Shenandoah Valley Master Gardener Association is proud to announce the first Central Shenandoah Valley Garden Symposium! Our featured speaker, Doug Tallamy, will be presenting two sessions! Ian Caton of Wood Thrush Native Plant Nursery and Jim Hurley of Blue Ridge Prism will round out the event, providing a fun and informative focus on the important role native plants have in our landscapes, dealing with invasive species, and how to maximize the use of native plants.

The symposium will also offer an opportunity for sponsors, vendors and not-for-profits to set up displays, sell items, and have face-to-face time with enthusiastic gardening, birding, and conservationist communities!

REGISTRATION IS REQUIRED!

We anticipate filling our capacity quickly, so register early! And tell all of your friends!
